

Privacy Policy

Petrus Communications recognises the need to protect the privacy of the personally-identifiable information that we collect from you as you use our Website (www.petruscommunications.com). Without prejudice to your statutory rights pursuant to French law "Informatique et libertés", by submitting information, you agree to Petrus Communications' use of such information as described below and as mentioned at the time such information is collected.

Information Collected

Petrus Communications collects personally-identifiable information on certain areas of its Website when users sign up for trainings or events, request for information, participate in surveys etc. You are informed of the nature of the data collected and whether or not providing the data is compulsory by informative notices displayed at the time the data is requested from you on the website.

Use of Information

You are informed of the use of the data collected by informative notices provided at the time the data is requested from you on the Website. The e-mail addresses that you provide allow us to send e-mail giving you notice of the existence of new contents to you based on the areas of interest you may have indicated to us. You may request cessation of the mailing of such notices later on at any time by following the instructions mentioned in the e-mails sent.

Disclosure to third-parties

Petrus Communications does not disclose your personally-identifiable information to third-parties, with the following exceptions:

1. As required by judicial, regulatory or administrative proceedings of any nation, state, or other applicable jurisdiction;
2. Aggregate non-personal information which is shared with the sponsors of the Website in order to describe the demographics of users who see the sponsors' logos on the Website.

External Links

The Website contains links to third-party websites. Please be aware that we cannot control and are not responsible for the information collection practices of third-party websites. We encourage you to review and understand the privacy policies of these websites before providing any information to them.

Consent

By using the Website, you consent to the collection, use and processing of your personally-identifiable information by us in the manner and for the uses described in this Privacy Policy. We reserve the right to make changes to these policies as appropriate, and will alert you to any changes made.